

N.C. General Assembly Votes Report – October 2025

Select Votes from the 2025 Legislative Session

2025 LEGISLATIVE SESSION REVIEW

This Special Votes Report contains select votes from the 2025 “Regular Session” of the North Carolina General Assembly on bills of particular interest to the North Carolina Family Policy Council.

As we go to press with this report, the General Assembly is technically still “in session” and is scheduled to meet on select designated days each month until state lawmakers return to Raleigh to convene the 2026 “Short Session” in late April. Accordingly, votes can still be taken during these “monthly sessions.” Even so, it is important to proceed with the publication of this report to help citizens understand how their state lawmakers have chosen to vote on key bills to-date. We will update this report as necessary if and when additional votes of interest are cast.

In this report, we first provide a brief summary highlighting many of the significant actions taken during the 2025 “Long Legislative Session,” and then we list the recorded votes of members of the State Senate and State House on key bills. All votes are taken from official records provided on the N.C. General Assembly website at www.ncleg.gov.

HURRICANE RELIEF & RECOVERY

The 2025 Legislative Session began in earnest on Wednesday, January 29, following an “organizational session” earlier in the month. The term began just months after Hurricane Helene ravaged major portions of Western North Carolina in what was reportedly the most devastating storm in state history. As a result, a major focus of lawmakers during the 2025 Session was providing financial assistance for disaster relief and recovery for the portions of the state most impacted by the storm.

AN “EFFECTIVE SUPERMAJORITY”

Fortunately, action on the majority of hurricane relief efforts transcended partisanship and politics.

Our state government, however, remains a political body, and political considerations play a major role in determining what bills are considered and what bills ultimately become law.

Following the 2024 General Election, North Carolina voted to keep a Democrat in the Governor’s mansion and Republican majorities in the State Legislature. In January 2025, Former State Attorney General Josh Stein took the helm of the state’s Executive Branch as Governor. Meanwhile, Sen. Phil Berger (R-Rockingham) maintained his post as President Pro Tempore of the State Senate in a chamber where the GOP barely held on to a veto-proof supermajority. Republican Rep. Destin a state budget. While the Governor, the State Senate, and the State House have all produced their own versions of a budget for 2025-2027 biennium, a comprehensive budget bill has yet to pass the General Assembly.

As the budget was debated by both chambers, it became clear that the House and Senate were at an impasse regarding priorities and major components of the state spending plan, including: potential tax rate changes, Medicaid funding adjustments, and state employee and teacher pay raises.

Although a biennial budget has not been agreed upon, the legislature has passed two “mini budgets” to fund select functions of state

Hall (R-Caldwell) was elected by his colleagues to a first term as Speaker of the NC House and presides over a chamber where the GOP fell one seat shy of a veto-proof supermajority. Nonetheless, House Republicans have been able to attract enough votes from across the aisle to form an “effective supermajority” with a handful of Democrats and override a majority of Governor Josh Stein’s vetoes. As of this writing, state lawmakers have overridden eight of Gov. Stein’s 15 vetoes.

BUDGET STALEMATE

In addition to hurricane relief, a major focus of the 2025 Session has been the crafting and advancement of government for a period of time.

Unlike the federal government, North Carolina is not at risk of “shutting down,” as the state budget reverts to previous fiscal year funding levels if a new budget is not enacted before the beginning of the state fiscal year on July 1.

As you will see in this report, we have included votes by the House and Senate on their versions of the state budget, as well as a couple of notable proposed amendments.

PRO-FAMILY OMNIBUS

One of the most significant bills to pass through the General Assembly in the 2025 Session was HB 805—Prevent Sexual Exploitation/Women

and Minors. This bill initially passed the House as a legislative effort to limit the exploitation of women and children by purveyors of pornography. When the bill arrived in the Senate, several additional pro-family measures were added to the bill, including: defining the terms “male” and “female” in state law based on biological sex; prohibiting taxpayer funding of puberty blockers, cross-sex hormones, and “gender transition” surgeries in state prisons; creating a 10-year statute of limitations for malpractice lawsuits arising from “gender transition” procedures; allowing students to opt-out of activities that would substantially burden their religious liberty; directing local boards of education to maintain a web-based catalogue of library books in schools and a means for parents to prohibit their children from checking out objectionable materials or books; and prohibiting students of the opposite biological sex from sharing sleeping quarters on school trips.

The House concurred with the Senate’s changes to HB 805 and the bill was ratified but subsequently vetoed by Gov. Stein who claimed, “the General Assembly chooses to engage in divisive, job-killing culture wars.” Ultimately, the House and Senate overrode the veto, and HB 805 was enacted into law.

PARENTAL RIGHTS

Building on a major piece of parental rights legislation passed in the 2023 Legislative Session, state lawmakers continued efforts to acknowledge and codify the fundamental rights of parents to direct the upbringing of their children. Notably, the NC General Assembly enacted SB 442—Parents Protection Act, which protects parents from charges of abuse or neglect if they refuse to affirm a child’s gender dysphoria or gender confusion—and instead choose to raise their child consistent with the child’s innate biological sex as male or female. SB 442 also applies a similar standard to prospective adoptive parents.

GUARDING STUDENTS FROM HARM

Also enacted into law was HB 959—Various Education Changes, which seeks to protect children from harmful effects of technology at school. This bill directs local boards of education to adopt internet safety policies to protect students while using the internet; requires instruction on the social, emotional, and physical harms of social media on students to be included in the state’s standard course of study; and requires local school systems to establish policies that—at a minimum—prohibit students from using cell phones and other wireless communication devices during instructional time at school.

EDUCATION

While HB 959 will do much to protect students from the harms of technology in educational settings, a number of other education-related measures remain in legislative limbo.

HB 87—Educational Choice for Children Act \(ECCA\) would opt North Carolina into a federal education tax credit program established by the federal “One Big Beautiful Bill” (H.R.1) passed by Congress and signed into law by President Trump in July. This measure would provide a federal tax credit of up to $1,700 to individuals who donate to a Scholarship Granting Organization (SGO). The funds collected by SGOs would then be used to provide educational scholarships to children. HB 87 passed the House and Senate, but was vetoed by the Gov.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) was also in focus during the 2025 session. SB 227—Eliminating “DEI” in Public Education proposed to eliminate the promotion of “divisive concepts” and “discriminatory practices” in kindergarten through 12th grade. Two additional bills were proposed to eliminate DEI, one in higher education (SB 558), and one in state government (HB 171). All three DEI bills passed the General Assembly but were vetoed by Governor Stein.

At the time of this writing, HB 87, HB 171, SB 227, and SB 558 were all awaiting veto override votes in the State House.

FOSTER CARE AND ADOPTION

The General Assembly also passed a major rewrite of North Carolina’s foster care and adoption laws through the passage of HB 612—

Fostering Care in NC Act. This bill makes extensive and significant improvements to the foster care and adoption systems in North Carolina.

DEFUNDING PLANNED PARENTHOOD

During a special monthly session held in September, the State Senate passed a measure designed to further restrict the taxpayer funding of abortion-giant Planned Parenthood. The Senate version of HB 192—Defund Planned Parenthood & Cost Transparency would direct NC DHHS to disenroll the Planned Parenthood Federation of America and its associated entities as a Medicaid provider and a recipient of funds through the state’s Medicaid program. HB 192 has returned to the State House for consideration with the Senate’s changes, but the bill has yet to be taken up for a vote.

CONCLUSION

So far, the 2025 Legislative Session has been a success for the advancement of pro-family interests in North Carolina. As noted in this report, a host of significant bills have been enacted into law, and several others are pending veto overrides and other actions.

At the same time, it is notable that no significant efforts have been made in the state legislature this year to expand predatory gambling or to legalize marijuana in the state.
